THE CRAIG RUSSO LATIN JAZZ PROJECT ★ SOUL EYES

LATIN JAZZ FROM CENTRAL ILLINOIS?

Yes! It may first come as a surprise that a Latin jazz group exists outside a major metropolitan area and outside any major Hispanic community. Maybe it should not be such a surprise. Appreciation of Afro-Caribbean music reaches far beyond preconceptions of who is its audience. Similarly, many musicians who have otherwise little connection to Hispanic culture, are strongly attracted to this music. Jazz musicians, in particular, are drawn to its rich, rhythmic complexity and improvisational freedom. In fact, musicians from the jazz world and the Latin music world use the same word to describe the feeling of the music's groove: Swing!

Our music has its own authenticity. It is an authenticity that naturally comes from the dedication and talent of the musicians. Enjoy!
